

Take your research further with Sommarmatchen 2016

The Sommarmatch matches student ambition to research excellence to deliver results that takes innovation from Linköping university closer to the market.

Projects with an agenda to reach customers, partners and users can define their needs as a summer assignment for one or two students and apply for a Sommarmatch. LiU Innovation, the Innovation Office at LiU, find a student candidate to fulfil the competence needed and support the work to arrive at the desired results.

Submitting your idea as a Sommarmatch project can among others give you material for demonstrating your solution to partners and clients, insight to frame your offer to attract the intended customers or a plan for activities to create impact and value from your innovation.

How does it work?

For six weeks during the summer the student works on the project. Initially they will need your assistance in understanding the problem and getting an introduction to the field of interest. Throughout the project you will need to be available to answer questions and discuss the progress to ensure that the end result is up to par.
