

REMESO Graduate School

Linköping University, Sweden

Courses for Swedish and International
PhD candidates and Master students

Spring 2012:

International Migration, Ethnicity and Gender: Intersectional Perspectives on Labour, Power and Citizenship

2 April - 4 May, 2012, Intensive on-campus week: 16-20 April
Deadline for applications: 2 March, 2012

Course directors: Anna Bredström, PhD, REMESO and Prof. Diana Mulinari, University of Lund. Guest lecturers: Prof. Gail Lewis, Open University, UK; Prof. Helma Lutz, Johann Wolfgang Goethe University, Germany and Paula Mulinari, PhD, Malmö College

This course draws on a variety of theoretical approaches to explore the centrality of gender at different levels of the migration process. It pursues an intersectional analysis of migration and focus on how articulations of class, ethnicity, gender/sexuality and generation shape the experiences of migrants across Europe. Questions concerning international migration, citizenship rights, gender relations and the global economy are discussed. Theories and concepts of migration, ethnicity, racism and multiculturalism will be critically examined from an intersectional perspective.

General information:

- The courses are offered to postgraduate students (PhD or MA).
- Courses comprise 5 weeks of full-time work for 7,5 ECTS. Students spend one intensive week at REMESO, at Linköping University, Campus Norrköping. Courses are examined with a paper.
- Students are offered accommodation in a hostel during the intensive week in Norrköping. There is no course fee and the Graduate School does not offer any travel grants. Students are encouraged to apply for travel grants through their home institutions.

For information and application form:

www.isv.liu.se/remeso/remeso-graduate-school

REMESO
Graduate School on Migration, Ethnicity and Society