

REMESO Graduate School

Linköping University, Sweden
For Swedish and International PhD and MA Students

Spring 2019:

Citizenship, Welfare and Integration in the Shadow of the European 'Refugee Crisis' EXTENDED DEADLINE

29 April-31 May 2019 on-campus week in Norrköping 13-17 May
Course Director and lecturer: Professor Anders Neergaard, REMESO

Guest Lecturer: Bridget Anderson, Professor of Migration, Mobilities and Citizenship, University of Bristol; Nacira Guénif-Souilamas, Professor, Education Sciences Department, University of Paris 8 Vincennes-Saint-Denis; Jason Frank, Professor, Department of Government, Cornell University; others TBA.

Global restructuring of production, recast welfare and labour market regimes, increasing importance of multilevel modes of governance and expressions of culture and identity have brought with them new urgent dilemmas in European societies. They are centred on issues of migration, 'race', gender, citizenship, human rights and the social exclusion/inclusion of migrants and new ethnic minorities. At the centre of this course are issues pertaining to challenges to democracy, changing forms of citizenship, bordering and border making and processes of inclusion/exclusion and inequalities in a context of neoliberal governance and extreme right populism. With scholar from the UK, France, the USA and Sweden, the course explores some of the central challenges concerning citizenship in in the shadow of the European 'Refugee Crisis' and mounting social conflicts. In focus is the increasing politicization and salience concerning issues of migration and integration.

Extended Application Deadline: 24 April 2019

- REMESO Graduate School courses are offered to PhD- and advanced MA students.
- 5 weeks of full-time work for 7.5 ECTS. One intensive week at REMESO, Campus Norrköping.
- Courses are usually examined by a paper assignment.

For information and application form

<https://liu.se/en/research/graduate-school-in-migration-ethnicity-and-society> or contact Course Director directly: Anders Neergaard (anders.neergaard@liu.se)